

HSE Emergency First Aid at Work (EFAW)

Qualification: ITC Level 2 Award in Emergency First Aid at Work (QCF)

Duration: 1 day / 6 hours (09.00 - 16.00)

Certificate: 3 years

The Health and Safety (First-Aid) Regulations (1981) require employers to provide adequate and appropriate equipment, facilities and trained personnel to enable first aid to be given to employees if they are injured or become ill at work. Employers also have a duty of care towards all visitors and users of their facilities.

This practical one day course will give your employees the necessary skills to deal with first aid incidents in the work place. It is suitable for low hazard workplaces such as offices and shops and was designed to meet the changing face of modern work places with modern mobile communication and a modern emergency service. Candidates will learn to deal with life threatening incidents until the emergency services arrive and very minor incidents that will not require medical assistance.

Core content: Prescribed by the Health and Safety Executive (HSE) and includes the following:

- The importance of preventing cross infection
- The need for recording incidents and actions
- The use of available equipment
- Assess the situation and circumstances in order to act safely, promptly and effectively in an emergency
- Administer first aid to a casualty who is unconscious (including seizure)

- Administer cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR)
- Administer first aid to a casualty who is choking
- Administer first aid to a casualty who is wounded and bleeding
- Administer first aid to a casualty who is suffering from shock
- Provide appropriate first aid for minor injuries (including small cuts, grazes and bruises, minor burns and scalds, small splinters)

Assessment: Continual assessment by trainer observation and a short multiple choice question paper. Candidates must attend the full 6 hours to qualify.

Certificate: Certified by ITC First and valid for three years.

This ITC qualification is regulated by the Office of Qualifications and Examinations Regulation (OfQual) and is part of the Qualifications & Credit Framework (QCF).
